

PCA plot showing the relationship between various physiological variables (labeled on the axes) and the first two principal components (Dim1 and Dim2). The variables are represented by vectors originating from the center. The plot shows a clear separation between the variables and the samples (numbered 1 to 46).

